ROOTERS

Every man will have a chance to show his college spirit this afternoon. A meeting of the Rooters' Club will be held at 5.10 o'clock.
All the college songs and yells will be practised in preparation for to-night's game.
McGill will play the leading team in the league, to-night, and the Rooters are going to help the college team to win.
Rooters are absolutely useless unless they act in concert.
The practice this afternoon will put the men in the proper shape to help at the game to-night.
McGill have to win to-night.
Get out and help.

MCGILL WILL MEET VICKERS TEAM TO-NIGHT

League Leaders Will Try to Defeat the College Team

TEAM IS CONFIDENT

Large Turn-Out of Students Will Root For The Team To-night

One of the most exciting games of hockey played this season, will be seen at the Victoria rink this evening, when the McGill and Vickers teams meet.

The Vickers team is composed of practically all the stars of last year's Montreal League, and have yet to lose a game. Their team is composed of a combination of veterans, who know all the tricks of the game, and young players, who can stand the heavy pace. They are confident that they will not be defeated to-night and may be sure to put up an excellent brand of hockey.

The McGill team, after losing the first two games of the season, came back to life last Thursday and gave the M.A.A.A. team a thorough beating. This sudden reversal in form was due for a large part to the fact that the men are getting into condition, and also because they use much more combination play than they did previous to the advent of a coach.

Judging by the form shown in the last game the team is certainly as good as it was when it romped away with the championship last year, and in the opinion of many, it is much better. It was remarked by many of the regular attendants at the hockey matches that there would not be many more games added to the losing column as far as McGill was concerned.

The team is very anxious to show what they are capable of doing against a first-class team, and will be sure to give an excellent account of themselves to-night.

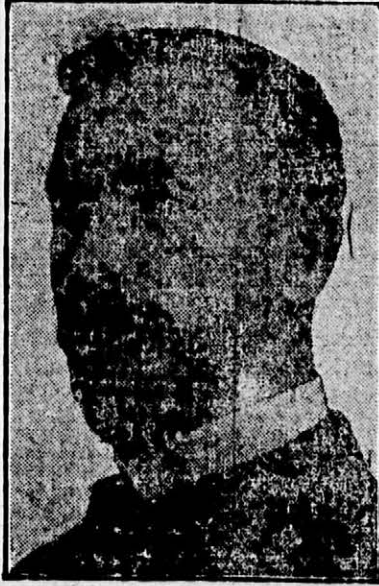

The fact that the Rooters' Club will be in attendance will, no doubt, help the team very much. It has always been noticed that the college team very seldom goes down to defeat when backed by an organized collection of rooters. Everyone may be sure that they will not be disappointed if they attend the game to-night.

The other game to be played will be between the Shamrocks and Loyola. There has always been a friendly rivalry between these teams which leads them to exert themselves to the utmost, when playing against each other. It is rumored that the Shamrock team have succeeded in obtaining several new players, and that their team will be strengthened immensely. An interesting contest may be expected.

The teams will line up as follows.
McGill. Vickers.
Dooner . . . Goal . . . Brophy
Heney . . . Defence . . . Themens

MEDICINE WIN FIRST INTER-FACULTY GAME

Defeated Arts by Score of 14-10 at Basketball Saturday

In a closely contested basketball match, Medicine defeated Arts by a score of 14-10. At the commencement of the play, Arts started off with a rush, and on a nice combination play Stanway scored. Medicine frequently fouled, and seemed to be off in their shooting. MacDougall scored five free shots for Arts as a result of Medicine's fouling. Shortly before the end of the first half, Hyndman scored for Medicine on a pretty shot from centre. This ended the scoring for the first half, Arts leading by 7-2.

The second half started with Medicine the aggressors. In less than a few minutes Ackman scored for Medicine, followed by two baskets by McCarthy. Medicine at this stage of the game had Arts bewildered by their fast passing and good shooting. Bussiere added another for Medicine on a clever shot from the side, making the score 10-7 in favour of Medicine. Towards the end of the match, the play started to slow up, the fast pace beginning to tell on the players, owing to the fact that they were not in condition. The game ended with Medicine leading by the score of 14-10.

McCarthy, Bussiere and Ackman were the pick of the winners; MacDougall and Stanway showed up best for the losers.

The line-up was as follows:—
Arts. Medicine.
Knowlton . . . Johnson
Werry . . . Hyndman
MacDougall . . . Bussiere
MacIntosh . . . McCarthy
Stanway . . . Ackman
Brace replaced Johnson at half-time.

MCGILL MEN RETURN

ANNUAL BOARD MEETING.

An important meeting of the Annual Board will be held this evening, at 7.30 o'clock, in the Faculty Room of the R.V.C.

It is absolutely necessary that every member be at the meeting at the appointed hour, as many will have to leave shortly after that time. The meeting will be a short one.

NEW AMATEUR HOCKEY BODY WAS FORMED

Quebec Amateur Hockey Association Has Been Inaugurated

CITY LEAGUE A MEMBER

Will Control All Amateur Hockey in the Province of Quebec

That amateur hockey will be placed on a sound and better basis, and afforded an opportunity to come into its own again, is assured by the formation of the Quebec branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, launched on Saturday, under the name of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. The formation of the Quebec branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association gives that body control of the amateur branch of hockey throughout the Dominion of Canada, and the Quebec branch has such men as Major Hartland MacDougall, James Taylor, president of the Amateur Skating Association of Canada; T. Yates Foster; W. R. Granger, president Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, T. Slatery, past president of the Shamrocks; and C. S. Fosbery, principal of Lower Canada College, is in charge of it.

The Quebec branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association already has as members the Montreal City Amateur Hockey League, the Junior Amateur Hockey Association and the Inter-school Hockey League, while one or two other leagues have already applied for membership. Only the leagues affiliated with the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association will be afforded an opportunity of challenging for the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Amateur Hockey Championship of Canada, for their champions each season.

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, owing to their affiliation with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, are now members of the Amateur Athletic Association of Canada, and the definition of an amateur of the A.A.U. of C. has been adopted by the new organization. This definition does not permit of amateurs and professionals playing with or against one another, and all players competing with or against professionals from now on will be barred from amateur sport in Canada.

All members of affiliated leagues with the Quebec branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will be given registration cards and cannot compete in amateur competitions without them. These cards will be the same as those given to athletes by the A.A.U. of C. in various branches of sport.

The Quebec Hockey Association received the following message from W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association on Saturday:—

"The executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, by unanimous vote, gave the Quebec Hockey Association affiliation and control of amateur hockey in Quebec as a branch of this Association. Signed, W. A. Hewitt, Secretary C.A.H.A."

With a view to placing the amateur game on a good footing, the officers of the Quebec branch, with the exception of the executive, were elected for a term of two years, which is in accordance with the constitution adopted and approved of by the central body. The president of each affiliated league becomes a member of the executive of the Association each year.

The object of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association will be to further and encourage amateur hockey in the Province of Quebec and to work in affiliation with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. The following officers were elected:—

THE ROOTERS' CLUB

The announcement that the Rooters' Club is to commence activities this afternoon will no doubt be pleasing to the majority of the students.

The committee in charge of its reorganization are doing everything in their power to make the club a success and the prospects for a successful season are very bright. In former years the Rooters' Club was always very popular among the students and practically the whole undergraduate body would turn out at the meetings.

The students must bear in mind the fact that the club cannot be successful unless it has large attendances at the practices. It is useless to turn out at a game unless you have previously learned to follow the leader of the Rooters' Club.

The greater part of the club has always been composed of members of the Freshman year; this year it is expected that they will once again turn out and help our teams to win their games.

The hockey team only needs the encouragement of an organized body of students to urge it on. It is indeed good news to them to hear that there will be a large turn-out to-night.

THE NEW HOCKEY ASSOCIATION

Amateur hockey in the Province of Quebec has taken a definite step forward with the formation of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

There has always been some doubt in the minds of the students as to the status of many of the teams playing in the city leagues, as many rumours about professionalism were circulated from time to time. It was absolutely necessary that none of the members of the McGill team should run the risk of being professionalised, and it was largely due to their efforts that the movement for the formation of the new governing body was commenced.

It is a foregone conclusion that the inter-collegiate league will be operating again next year and every precaution had to be taken to protect our players. The new association has been affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, consequently we may rest assured that teams of the highest standard will belong to it.

It is expected that there will be much greater interest in amateur hockey from this time forward. We hope that this will be true of the students as well as of the public in general.

THE NOTE BOOK HABIT

Do you have the note book habit? Hurrah for you! Then you have formed the habit of making notes on the things you hear and see, of instructions received or to be given, of things to do and to write, of places to go and things to say when you get there.

You have the habit, then, in planning your work, of routing it in the order in which it ought to be made, for the sake of time economy or to be sure they will come in proper sequence when one call is related to another.

You free your mind from the necessity of becoming a storage house, and allow it to serve as a Factory for Ideas. Hurrah for you!

You do not lose the hundred and one by-products of your day's work which would escape your mind and be relegated to that enormous scrap heap of good ideas never acted upon.

Your note book habit has prompted you to be more thorough, and it has made thoroughness easier. It has fostered the power to analyze.

It has become so much a part of your life that you could not get along without it. Hurrah for you!—Ex.

New York City. Rev. Mr. Dewey was for a time stationed at Halifax with No. 10 Canadian Siege Battery. His brother, A. Gordon Dewey, M.A. Arts '11, Law '17, is now assistant director of the Federal Employment Bureau at Camp Upton, N.Y. Upon the completion of this work he will resume his Ph.D. studies at Columbia University. Mr. Dewey was in Russia and Rumania as an officer of the American Y.M.C.A.

Aviator Now Believed Dead

Mr. and Mrs. C. Caron-Pelletier, Ottawa, have received word from the military authorities that their son, Lieut. Charles Adolphe Pelletier, Sol. '18, R.A.F., reported missing since the 11th May last, is now, after exhaustive enquiries, presumed to have died on or since that date.

Lieut. Pelletier was 22 years of age, a graduate of the Royal Military College and afterwards a student at McGill. He went over as lieutenant in the Engineers, July, 1916. In the fall of that year, after a severe attack of illness, he was invalided home and after a month's sojourn in Canada returned to England. Shortly afterwards he joined the R.A.F., and was gazetted flying officer, January, 1918, and went to France in the spring of 1918. In a general engagement, May 11th, he was shot down in flames over the Hun lines.

Brigadier-General W. St. Pierre Hughes, D.S.O., who commanded the Canadian troops in the Crowborough area, in England, while Lieut. Pelletier was stationed there as an officer in the Canadian Engineers, writes: "I consider Lieut. Pelletier's death a great loss to the Canadian force. He was the type of young Canadian who brought honor and credit to his home land. Like many others of our heroic boys, he chafed at the long delay in England and with his chum, the late Lieut. McIlroy, applied for transfer to the Royal Air Force in order to get more quickly into the fighting line. His speedy promotion to be a 'scout' in the Royal Air Force proved his ability, as only the coolest, most courageous and most efficient are chosen as scouts. "He was energetic and capable, with a bright attractive manner and had an excellent influence over his men. He was greatly beloved by all who knew him."

Nursing Sister Decorated.

Recent letters from overseas announce that on December 10, Nursing Sisters Agnes Warner, Arts '92, of St. John, N.B., and four others were decorated with the Croix de Guerre. Miss Warner was three times mentioned in despatches for her heroic work in caring for the wounded in the great drive and hers was the first hospital unit across the Hindenburg line. The decoration awarded Miss Warner and her associates was personally bestowed by the general, a mark of distinction which plainly indicated his appreciation of the award.

A statement by the Honorary Advisory Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, Ottawa, says that Miss Margaret Newton, Agr. '18, of Plaisance, Que., has been granted a studentship for the study of rust-resisting varieties of wheat, with a view to breeding some variety that will minimize the present enormous annual loss from rust. W. H. Hatcher, Arts '16, holds a fellowship for research work at McGill in connection with the production in Canada of hydrogen peroxide and its solutions, the Canadian supply of which formerly came from Germany.

On January 6, a son was born at Newark-on-Tyne, England, to the wife of Major George H. Kohl, Sol. '10, 69th Field Company, Royal Engineers. Major G. Eric Reid, D.S.O., Arts '15, has been struck off the strength of the C.E.F.

The death occurred at St. Luke's rectory, Montreal, on January 11, of Florence Ethel Hurd, wife of Rev. D. B. Rogers, Arts '06.

Arthur G. Penny, Arts '08, is the author of "Great Undertakings," which bears the sub-title, "An Impression of British War Effort at Home and on the Western Front," and which is published by the Chronicle Print, Quebec. As representative of the Chronicle, Mr. Penny was a member of the Canadian Overseas Press Mission, and writes clearly and interestingly of great undertakings which he witnessed.

After spending the past thirteen years in Brazil with a medical commission, which is combating the yellow fever plague there, Dr. H. Wolferstan Thomas, Med. '97, has arrived home in Montreal on a few months leave before returning south in the spring. Dr. Thomas said that thanks to the work of the Liverpool School of Medicine, whose commission he was with in Brazil, yellow fever had been almost completely eradicated from that country, with the exception of certain localities. Other tropical diseases, too, were disappearing from Brazil on account of methods of sanitation, and even the dreaded beri-beri was being overcome.

SENIORS AND INTERMEDIATES WON THEIR BASKETBALL GAMES SATURDAY BY LARGE MARGINS

Melville Seniors Defeated by Score 49 to 10.—McGill Intermediates Defeat Melville by 25-14.—Teams Are in Good Condition.—Combination Play Was Very Good.

The basketball season had a very auspicious opening on Saturday night, as far as McGill is concerned, when both the senior and intermediate teams succeeded in winning the first scheduled games in the City Basketball League. Judging by the form shown by the teams on Saturday there is every reason to expect that both of the teams will be able to give a good account of themselves against any of their opponents in the league.

The senior team had no difficulty in defeating the Melville seniors, seemingly being able to score baskets at will. The intermediate game was much more closely contested, but in this also the McGill team were the victors by a good margin.

The players on the college team seem to be in good condition, no doubt, due to the fact that they have been practising regularly at the gymnasium for several weeks past. The only man who appeared to have difficulty in keeping up the pace was Upham, who has been unable to attend practices lately, but notwithstanding this fact he was one of the main factors in the victory of the McGill team.

It would be difficult to state who was the star player on the senior team, as every player held down his position in a very able manner. The shooting of Hay was very good, and he was responsible for many of the baskets. Young and Upham were also very effective on the home. Kern held down his position on the defence in a very able manner and should prove a very valuable player to the team. Montgomery was of great assistance to the team, both by his playing and his coaching, very often he came down the floor to the assist-

Arts '13, Rhodes scholar from McGill in 1915, has entered upon his studies in Law at Oxford.

Corp. George W. Bourke, M.M., Arts '17, has received his discharge from the C.E.F., and is now attached to the Invalided Soldiers' Commission. He is still receiving daily treatment for his wounds.

Satisfaction is expressed by the London Times in an editorial commenting upon the foundation of an "Inter-Allied fellowship of medicine society, which, it says, will unite more closely British, American and other Allied schools of medicine. Sir Wm. Osler, Med. '72, is president of the organization. Steps will be taken to inaugurate in London post-graduate courses in medicine similar to those already established at Paris for the heads of the American and Dominion army medical services. Officers on leave will be enabled to study medicine here, according to the plan which has been outlined.

W. H. Burroughs, Law '37, advocate, and deputy-prothonotary of the Superior Court, died Friday morning at his residence, 2567a Jeanne Mance street, Montreal, at the age of 58.

William Herbert Burroughs was the son of the late Charles Burroughs, K.C., a prominent lawyer of Montreal. For several years the deceased successfully practiced his profession as a lawyer. Some twelve years ago he was appointed deputy-prothonotary. His demise will be greatly regretted by the Bench, by his conferees of the Court House and by the members of the Bar who held him in great esteem.

He leaves a widow, nee Maude Andrew, only daughter of the late Professor Andrew.

Last June, the deceased suffered a paralytic stroke, and although he rallied later, his health was never restored.

ance of the home players and his play was responsible for many of the baskets.

The intermediate team seems to be very evenly balanced also. The men who seemed to be most effective were Levitt and Laishley. Levitt played an excellent game on the defence and was responsible for the majority of the baskets in the first half of the game. Laishley is a very earnest worker, who plays an unselfish game. Kennedy, who played at center, used his height to the team's advantage and scored several baskets. Kern is a clever player and guards his basket in a very good fashion, but seemingly made the error of making passes the length of the floor too often instead of using a combination play to get the ball there. Brown was very closely watched at all stages of the game and whereas he was unable to add many to the score he gave the defence men much trouble and passed the ball in a very able manner.

Milne was probably the best player on the Melville seniors and was responsible for practically all of their baskets. The other members of their team never seemed to be able to show any clever plays throughout the game with the result that they were hopelessly outclassed. The Melville intermediates are very good players and kept the game in doubt until the latter part of the second period. Schade was very effective around the basket and succeeded in scoring 11 points out of the total of 14.

The whistle had scarcely blown for the opening of play in the senior game when Hay scored a basket as a result of a combination play with Upham and Young. Upham scored another shortly after the face off. The play then was carried down to the other end of the floor, and the McGill basket was in danger for a few moments, but Montgomery secured the ball and passed it the length of the floor to Hay, who was not covered, and he scored another. From the face Upham took the ball and scored another. When Young added two more baskets to the total the result of the game was beyond doubt. Hay again scored for McGill.

Evidently becoming careless the McGill men lost the ball at the face and after a mix-up under the basket Milne succeeded in scoring first for Melville. The McGill team retaliated by putting in three more in quick succession. Hay being responsible for two and Upham for one. The second of these baskets scored by Hay was the result of a combination play down the length of the floor, in which four members of the team took part. Milne again eluded the McGill defence and scored the second basket for Melville. Before the whistle blew for the end of the period both Young and Hay scored one each.

Soon after the opening of the second period Hay again scored, after the face Upham added another basket to the total by a pretty shot from some distance out. Milne again added another to his team's total by a clean shot from outside the McGill defence. The referee declared a foul on Melville and Upham added another point to the total. McGill again secured the ball at the face and were having some difficulty in getting by the Melville players when Montgomery came down the floor, and taking a pass from Upham, scored a basket on a long shot. The play then developed into a runaway entirely and several more baskets were added to the McGill total, bringing the score to 49. Milne and Morrison each scored a basket before time was called, making Melville's total 10.

The McGill Intermediates started off at a very fast clip in the first period and scored three baskets in quick succession, Levitt being responsible for two and Laishley for one. Schade then scored the first for Melville, making the score 6-2. Levitt took advantage of two fouls and added two more points to McGill's score. The Melville team then showed a sudden flash of speed and by scoring three baskets and a foul, put their team in the lead. Kennedy then scored again for McGill, and was successful shortly afterwards in scoring on a free shot. Brown then scored his first. Just before the whistle blew Schade put in another basket. The period ended with the score standing 13-11 in McGill's favor.

Laishley opened up the scoring in the second period on a pass from Kern, putting the college team slightly further in the lead. Fuller then scored a foul for Melville. Kennedy then added another basket to the total and immediately after the face Schade took a long shot and once more brought his team within striking distance. The McGill team then suddenly seemed to take a new lease of life and added four more baskets to their total, Melville being unable to score again. The game ended with McGill leading, the score being 25-14. The teams lined up as follows:

The Art Of Fit-Reform Styles

Creative art—in the eye and mind of master designers—explains the great popularity of Fit-Reform Fall styles. There is nothing lacking—nothing overdone—and yet these Suits and Overcoats have a distinctive, modish appeal that attracts.

Fit-Reform Suits and Overcoats are readily distinguished—not only by the trademark label of guaranteed quality—but also by the certain style distinction that each garment carries with it.

R. V. C. Partials Arrange Program in Aid of University Settlement

Between three and six o'clock to-morrow afternoon a tea-room will be open in the Common Room of the R.V.C., under the auspices of the Partial Students' Society. In conjunction with the tea there will be a sale of home-made cake, candy and other good things, and music will be rendered throughout the afternoon. The proceeds received shall be devoted to the University Settlement.

Because the function is to be held in the R.V.C. need not deter the men from attending. In fact, the committee would appreciate some of the interest which was formerly shown by the men when the tea-room was to be held in Strathcona Hall, when stu-

THE PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY WILL MEET

Paper Will be Read on "The Vitality and Rationalism of France"

The announcement that the McGill Philosophical Society will hold a meeting came as a distinct pleasure to many of the students who have been awaiting such a move.

The Philosophical Society was one of the first societies to be organized at McGill, and has always been one of the foremost societies of that type about the campus. It was regretted that it had to curtail its activities somewhat owing to the conditions which prevailed during the last few years, but it is apparently to be revived.

Dr. J. W. A. Hickson will be the principal speaker of the evening, and may be sure to interest all those who attend. Dr. Hickson will read a paper on "The Vitality and Rationalism of France."

Students should not be deterred from attending these meetings because they are not taking a course in Philosophy. Any student attending the University is invited to attend. The paper will be given in language that can easily be understood by all.

An invitation has been extended to the students of the R.V.C. as well as to men attending the other faculties. It is hoped that there will be a very large attendance.

As previously announced, the meeting will take place on Tuesday evening, January 21, at eight o'clock, in Strathcona Hall.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

On Sunday afternoon Principal Peterson was stricken with paralysis while addressing a meeting at the Emmanuel Church. His condition is slightly improved, according to latest reports.

On Monday night the senior hockey team had their first practice under the direction of the new coach, Harry Hyland, formerly of the Wanderer team.

The junior hockey team, in their first game of the year, last Wednesday night, defeated the M.A.A.A. sextette to the tune of 4 to 3. Neither team showed their best form, the M.A.A.A. aggregation showed slightly better condition, but McGill were superior in team play. The goals were scored by Lowry, Galley (2) and Murphy. The defence did very effective work and helped keep the score what it was.

Friday was a day of activities. In the afternoon, the students of both McGill and R.V.C. turned out five hundred strong to hear Capt. Carpenter, V.C., relate what happened at Zeebrugge Mole. The Students' Council, together with the Canadian Club, had made arrangements with the management of His Majesty's Theatre, so that the whole upper gallery had been reserved for the students. The proceeds of the lecture were turned over to the Dover Patrol Fund.

At 8.00 p.m. about six hundred men turned out at the Y.M.C.A. to see

How They Died

Captain Douglas Waterston.

Captain Douglas Waterston, Arts '09, Med. '14, No. IX Canadian Field Ambulance, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waterston, of Westmount, was born at Belleville, Ont., on June 18th, 1889. He was educated at Belleville High School, and entered McGill University in 1905, receiving his B.A. in 1909 with First Rank Honours in Biology, and his degree in Medicine in 1914. During his course in Arts he contracted tuberculosis, and spent part of 1909 and 1910 at Saranac Lake, New York, where he made a satisfactory recovery. After graduation he received an appointment as interne in the Montreal General Hospital, which position he held until January, 1916, when he entered the Army Medical Service as Captain in No. 9 Field Ambulance, then being raised in Montreal. While on the resident staff of the Hospital, he qualified for a commission in the C.A.M.C., and received leave of absence to act as Medical Officer to the Montenegrin Mobilization Camp at Three Rivers, Que., during the summer of 1915. Capt. Waterston was held in the highest esteem by his associates and by the attending staff of the Hospital. In entering his country's service, he gave up the prospect of a brilliant career. He was killed in action in the Ypres salient on May 22, 1916, while acting temporarily as Medical Officer to the 43rd Battalion, C.E.F.

The death of Capt. Waterston is described as follows in a letter from Lieut.-Col. C. A. Peters:—

"Our ambulance finished last week a tour of rather arduous work, and we were all so happy that no casualties had occurred amongst us. We were told that we were to go to our present location for a month. No sooner did we get here, however, than we were called upon to supply Medical Officers to relieve Battalion Medical Officers who were either sick or on leave. On Sunday night an order came in to send a Medical Officer to relieve the 43rd Battalion Medical Officer, who was ill. I asked Douglas if he would go, and he replied, 'If you wish me to go, sir, I will.' He left soon after that with his batman. Yesterday afternoon (the following day) at 5 p.m., I had a message to say that he was dead. I know how I felt when I received the news, but I find it hard to realize how you will be able to stand it. The batman also was killed. This morning I learned what occurred.

"Capt. Waterston was in a dug-out dressing station attending to a wounded man. There were five others in it, including his batman. A shell struck the dug-out and all were instantly killed except one man, who was in a corner, and had a miraculous escape. We were fortunate enough to be able to get his body last night, and it was brought to this station early this morning. He looked very natural, except for a small bruise on his forehead his face was uninjured.

"Every mark of respect was lovingly paid by the officers and men of this unit, besides which three other ambulances sent officers and men.

"The coffin was literally covered with flowers, and I am sending you by separate cover a rose and a few forget-me-nots taken from amongst the lot. I do feel so sorry for you, but if he had to go it is nice for him to have been taken whilst performing his duty, which duty was an act of mercy."

Capt. Waterston was buried in the British Military Cemetery at Renninghelst, Belgium, and the officers and men of his unit erected a tablet to his memory in Melville Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

the film "Fit to Fight." Dr. Withrow, of Toronto, gave a lecture while the picture was being shown.

Following this the crowd marched down to Victoria rink, to see the senior hockey team defeat M.A.A.A. for their first victory of the season. The whole team showed greatly improved form over the last two games, and all the men worked hard and effectively. The team played good combination, which proved very profitable as was shown by the score, 10-3. Substitutes were used to good advantage in the second and third periods.

Dr. R. MacLean gave an interesting and instructive lecture before the Chemical Society on Friday night. The subject was "Explosives."

The members of the Graduates' Society have taken a great interest in the new course of Social Service and Study under Director Falk. To aid in the maintenance of this school they have subscribed $1,418.50, for which they are greatly thanked by the committee in charge.

MCGILL WOMEN'S UNION TO HELP THE REFUGEES

Will Co-Operate With the "La Famille du Soldat" Agency

SUFFERING IN FRANCE

Clothes Will be Supplied For The Families Left Desolate by War

At their last meeting, the members of the McGill Women's Union discussed the fact that although Spangnum dressings are still in demand, especially for the hospital ships, the time has now come when Red Cross work could be diverted in some measure from the care of the wounded to the relief of the refugees and the inhabitants of the war-stricken areas of Northern France and Belgium. They decided that some of the cotton goods in hand would be made up into articles of clothing for women and children and sent to "La Famille du Soldat," the agency, which under the presidency of Mademoiselle Merle D'Aubigne in Paris, has done so much throughout the war to alleviate the sufferings of French soldiers' families.

We must not forget that, if demobilization is comparatively a simple problem in Anglo-Saxon countries, it is quite the reverse in lands where war has raged for four years. Mines are flooded, factories razed or emptied, arable soil destroyed, so that fathers and husbands from these territories will either be kept in the armies of occupation until industrial and agricultural conditions have improved, or will be sent back to ruined homes, empty larders and hungry and sickly wives and children. In both cases a friendly hand, backed up by money, furniture, bedding, clothes and provisions, is necessary, and will be for a long time, so as to relieve distress and bring back hope and courage into these desolate homes. Thousands of families are worse off still, and have to remain scattered all over France, often in most over-crowded conditions, because the home, the village or the town they belonged to, has been entirely wiped out and cannot be rebuilt for a long time yet.

Mademoiselle Merle D'Aubigne is remaining for the present in Paris so as to continue her care of the scattered families. At the same time she looks after the buying of supplies to be sold or distributed among the vast working population of Fives, that the suburb of Lille, where the settlement called "Le foyer du peuple," has done such wonderful work before and since the war. She writes:

"We have been ransacking the wholesale groceries to find food enough to fill a car to feed the poor people of Fives. But we cannot get, either for love or money, cereals, rice, macaroni, dried vegetables or fruit, and what we can get is in small quantities or at very high prices.

"I succeeded in sending a car of furniture, as some families are left with a single bed, and sometimes none at all. The Huns took the mattresses and blankets, and the poor people broke up their wooden beds for fuel; many did this so as to escape having to lodge German soldiers. The need of woollen and cotton goods, shoes, clothing, needles, thread, brooms, soap, etc., is very great, but cannot be satisfied until these articles become cheap and abundant. Send all the new or second-hand clothing you can. It is all useful and all so welcome."

Fresh workers will be needed for this new departure in the McGill Women's Union activity. They will be made very welcome at the Medical Building every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from ten to five o'clock. Work can also be called for at these hours and taken home.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TENNIS CLUB TO-DAY

Plans are Being Made for Competitive Games This Spring

The annual meeting of the McGill Tennis Club will take place in the Union to-day, at 5.15 p.m. sharp. The executive of the club wishes to take this opportunity of urging all members and all those interested in the game to be present at this meeting.

The club has been fortunate in securing a new set of courts in a new and better location. The drainage and natural lighting of these courts is much better than those previously used by the club, and in consequence of this it will be possible to open the courts much earlier in the spring than heretofore.

Plans for competitive games to take place as early as possible this spring are now under foot, and both individual and club competition will be encouraged. Several clubs in good standing in this city have signified their willingness to engage in club matches this spring.

This kind of competition will undoubtedly prove of great value to the club at McGill not only in developing players but also by getting the players in line for intercollegiate competition next fall.

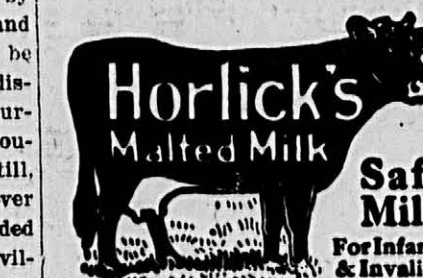

Get together, fellows, and make this coming year the best yet!
